

PRESS RELEASE 10th Nov 2009

Irish aviation consulting firm Aer Consult has recently been appointed as the Authorized Dealer for Spidertracks in the Republic of Ireland.

Aer Consult's Principal Consultant commented:

"We are very pleased to have been chosen to bring the benefits of Spidertracks Active Flight Following to Ireland

"Spidertracks is already used in over 30 countries across 5 continents and experience shows that Commercial Operators can benefit from tighter operational control and improved fleet utilization; Flight Training Organizations can use the recorded tracks as a training review tool and can monitor solo flights in real-time offering that extra level of safety, whilst Private Owners can ensure that they always have someone on the ground monitoring their safe progress from origin to final destination.

"Active Flight Following with Spidertracks utilizing the Iridium® satellite network, enables an immediate and more accurate response in accident situations. Beginning a search as soon as possible and locating the accident site without delay can be crucial to accident survivability.

"It is part of our development plans to add a small portfolio of innovative aviation products to our range of consultancy services and Spidertracks certainly fits the bill. Under the new Dealership agreement, Aer Consult will sell both the Spider and the optional Keypad unit and will offer customer support and information services."
